I will be using  to separate any section.

I will use the id="" attribute for any description of something that is displayed once, or not repeated.

I will use the class="" attribute for anything that is displayed more than once.

I will have to make multiple columns of varied sizes next to each other.

I will use some box shadows or borders around photos and text.

I might use a scroll overflow if there is too much text.

I will use fixed positioning for the bar on the left side of the page with the navigational elements.

I will also use the z index to make sure the content is stacked appropriately.

Gives it his all, Cares about his quality of work and is responsible and accountable, goes the extra mile.

What are some words that you would use to describe Kevin?

Responsible, honest, Determined.

Hobbies:

Kevin is fueled by his passion for music. Eager to find ways to put his creative side to work, he creates art and music. Kevin is most inspired by industrial, ambient, and electronic music, like Skinny Puppy, Godflesh, and Coil. Godflesh, also known as Fall of Because, is highly regarded as one of the pioneers of industrial metal. They fuse heavy guitars with slow drum machine rhythms and effects. Kevin has three projects of his own; Dirt Chamber, Olik Nesnah, and Dead City Soundscape. The music is created using synthesizers, electronic programming, and vocals. He would love to promote the culture that he loves and that has shaped him to be who he is, with graphic design, by making t-shirts or designing record albums. It would give him a chance to be responsible for designing something that people would deeply respond to. Kevin also loves to explore the outdoors and travel with his wife and son, and they are involved in his creative endeavors as well.

About:

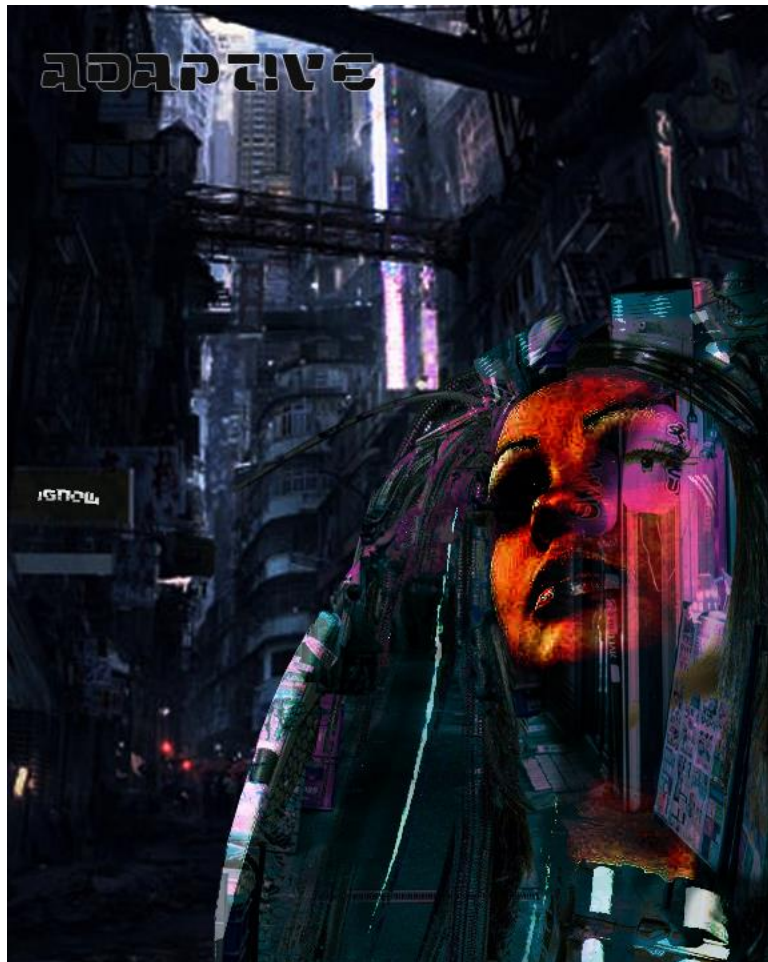

Kevin grew up in Iowa City, IA, with his younger brother, and has lived in many different places in the US since, with his favorite being Vermont. Kevin has enjoyed listening and creating music since he was incredibly young. Going to concerts every chance he had growing up inspired him to use synthesizers and electronic programming, along with vocals, to make music. He met his wife in the art scene in Iowa City, shortly after she had graduated from the University of Iowa. Kevin has been creating art and designing for friends and family for many years. His friends and family noticed his quality of work, and that he always goes the extra mile and genuinely cares about the quality of his work. He decided to go back to school to get a degree in Graphic Design, determined to turn his passion for creativity and visual arts into a career. His background in brand strategy and management shapes his strong 'lead by example' work ethic, while his experiences within the art and music scene drive his creative internal vision. After graduating he hopes to leverage his passion and unique creativity with a career in graphic design.
